Kitt Peak

National Optical Astronomy Observatory at Kitt Peak

S.R. 86, Tucson

Reservations:

520-318-8200

520-318-8726

www.noao.edu

Selected in the 1958 as the site for a national observatory for ground-based astronomy, Kitt Peak houses the world's largest collection of optical telescopes.

Kitt Peak is located on the Tohono O'Odham Reservation. The National Science Foundation has a lease with the Tribal Council for use of 200 acres of the mountaintop under a perpetual agreement that is valid as long as scientific research is conducted. (Facilities are maintained at the site.)

The mission of the National Observatory is to advance United States astronomy. Kitt Peak provides major facilities for astronomers and scientists from all over the world to conduct astronomical research. The world's largest Solar Telescope can be found on Kitt Peak. It is operated by the National Solar Observatory, which studies the sun, and observes the stellar phenomena of our closest star, as well as distant galaxies and quasars.

Kitt Peak is open to the public daily, 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.; and closed Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's days. The visitor center is open 9:00 a.m.-4:00p.m.

There is a charge for telescope tours. Tours begin at the visitor center, and last approximately one hour. During regular hours, visitors are welcome to take free, self-guided tours of Kitt Peak.

Visitor galleries offering interior views of the facilities are available at several of the telescopes, along with exhibits. Information on group tours or special programs, including Nightly Observing Program and Advanced Observing Program for the public, and the Kitt Peak Docent Program, is available through the visitor center. Reservations are required for nighttime programs.

Kitt Peak is located 56 miles southwest of Tucson via State Route 86; approximately one hour and 30 minutes driving time from Tucson.

The summit of Kitt Peak is at an elevation of 6,875 feet. People with cardiac and respiratory concerns should be aware that the walking paths to several telescopes are steep.

Temperatures on Kitt Peak are 10-20 degrees cooler than in Tucson. Visitors should come prepared with warm clothing. No food or gas facilities are available at Kitt Peak. Wheelchairs and handicapped-accessible restrooms are located in the visitor center. There is a public picnic area on the mountain.

The University of Arizona

Tucson, AZ 85721
www.arizona.edu

The University of Arizona in Tucson is a student-centered research university that holds as its top priority the advancement of learning through the integration of teaching, research and service to others. As one of the top research universities in the country, the university is a leader in discovering and sharing new ideas.

The university has formed many partnerships within the community, evidenced by more than 200 public-service programs that reach beyond the campus to improve the lives of the people of Tucson and the nation, and to make the world a better place. As Arizona's Land Grant University, the university has an equal mandate to integrate its research to its students, and to share its discoveries with all citizens.

The UA Science and Technology Park plays a major role in southern Arizona's economic development efforts as a high-tech business incubator. In addition, the university has cultivated alliances with American Indian tribes in the state, and international partnerships with Mexican government and industry. It actively participates in many medical outreach programs, such as the Arizona Poison and Drug Information Center and the Arizona Telemedicine Center.

The university provides top-quality educational programs and support services to a diverse student body, comprised of students from 50 states and more than 120 foreign countries. Students can choose more than 300 undergraduate and graduate degrees through 20 colleges and 11 schools on three campuses. UA offers credit and noncredit courses, workshops on-and-off campus, and high school and correspondence courses.

One of the largest libraries in the nation is housed here, as well as the state's only College of Medicine. In addition, the University of Arizona South serves the educational needs of the Sierra Vista/Fort Huachuca area.

Sports

The Arizona Wildcats compete in 18 intercollegiate sports. A variety of sports are offered to men and women, and each year more than 20,000 UA students take part in dozens of intramural and club sports on campus.

Cultural Events

The university offers cultural activities, such as music, dance and theater productions throughout the year. It is also home to the following attractions:

Arizona State Museum

Visitors may enjoy exhibits on the American Indian cultures of Arizona and the Southwest, from 12,000 years ago to the present.

520-621-6302

Center for Creative Photography

The center features a collection of works by nearly 2,000 major photographers. The center also offers public exhibits and an archives library.
